PUBLISHED THIS WEEK

The
Chateau of Montplaisir

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL, author of "The Sprightly Romance of Marsac." Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.25

Miss Seawell's new novel is a sparkling, piquant romance of gay French life. It tells the story of two men who possess the same name but are in no wise related. One is a rich old soap-boiler with no pedigree, the other a poverty stricken young nobleman. Their efforts to unite wealth and aristocracy bring about some extremely ludicrous situations. It is an ideal book for spring and summer reading.

The Castle of Lies

By ARTHUR HENRY VESEY, author of "The Clock and the Key." 12mo, cloth, $1.50

A dramatic story of Macedonian revolutionists, with an American hero. The American, intensely irritated at having been called a coward by the woman he loves, deliberately permits himself to be abducted by a scheming countess, and becomes involved in a daring, desperate intrigue, in which two bands of conspirators are working at cross purposes. A tremendously exciting story.

The President of the National Manufacturers Association, David
M. Parry, in his novel, "The Scarlet Empire," predicts this if Socialism ever comes true

"The Scarlet Empire" is an interesting, well conceived study of possible extreme conditions if the pendulum of socialism swings too far. In its exaggerations and bits of social satire it points out many of the most dangerous possible evolutions of a social democracy.

By HAROLD BINDLOSS

An Unsolicited Opinion from a Bookseller's Adviser

"MY DEAR EDWARDS:

"The Stokes Company deserve the heartiest congratulations upon the last work from their press. That it will justify their expectations I am more than convinced. It deserves all they claim for it, and I shall be greatly surprised if it does not far exceed them.

"Anyone who admires clean, brave, heroic manhood will be delighted with 'Alton of Somasco.' The book is strong, intense, vivid; it has the fragrance of the great forests in which its scenes are laid, and its men have the strength, endurance and solidity of the huge mountains on whose rocky sides they stand. I do not hesitate to say that it will at once take the front rank in the fiction of to-day, and it ought to be a capital 'seller.'

"Send me a copy whenever it comes out. It is a refreshing contrast with most of the late publications.

" March 19, '06.

Yours,

G. W. L."

Publishers, FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY, New York

These new novels are showing exceptional life

THE PROFESSOR'S LEGACY

By Mrs. Alfred Sidgwick

A love story of German University and English country life, notable for humor and fine character drawing. Not sensational, but not commonplace.

THE SEAM AID

By Ronald MacDonald

The humorous, and sometimes perilous, adventures of a castaway Bishop, his beautiful daughter, a "Raffles" of the sea, and some other unusual people on an uncharted island. Full of fun, love, and peril.

A VERY SUCCESSFUL NOVEL

Barbara Winslow, Rebel

By ELIZABETH ELLIS

Six Editions of a novel by an unknown author, published just two months, is an achievement. The only "safe and sane" inference, in these days when advertising alone will not sell a book, is that has exceptional merit. Another remarkable fact in connection with this story is that not one adverse criticism of it has appeared, though more than one hundred critics have expressed opinions.

Illustrated by John Rae, $1.50

Three New Spring Novels

For which there has been a steady demand since publication.

The Patriots

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of "The Southerners," etc.

A great war novel, the ripest product of its versatile author, and far superior to "The Southerners." The character of Lee is portrayed in its true light here, and the descriptions of the battles are intensely vivid.

Illustrated, $1.50

A Motor Car Divorce

By LOUISE CLOSSER HALE

The third edition of this startlingly original automobile story has just been put to press. It has all the elements of the successful novel, and will undoubtedly make one of the most popular of the novels for summer reading.

With illustrations by Walter Hale, $1.50

The Scholar's Daughter

By BEATRICE HARRADEN

Author of "Katherine Frensham," "Ships that Pass in the Night," etc.

This gifted author's new story is an entrancing comedy, whose plot is laid in a quaint old English town. Miss Harraden has depicted a very impulsive, lovable heroine in "The Scholar's Daughter." Illustrated, $1.50

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY, NEW YORK

COWARDICE COURT

The Delightful New Love Story by
GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON
was published on March 31st

In spite of a very large first edition we were obliged to go to press with a second edition on day of publication.

Some have said they like this story better than "Beverly of Graustark" and "Nedra."

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & CO. have brought out this week Molly Elliot Seawell's piquant romance of French gay life entitled "The Chateau of Montplaisir;" also, "The Castle of Lies," by Arthur Henry Vesey, a dramatic story of Macedonian revolutionists with an American hero.

DODD, MEAD & CO. will bring out shortly an amusing parody of "Omar," by Miss Carolyn Wells, entitled "The Rubaiyat of an Automobile." They announce that Professor Harry Thurston Peck's "Twenty Years of the Republic," which has been running serially in The Bookman, will not appear in book form until the fall.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. announce for early publication "The District Attorney," a timely new novel by William Sage, dealing with present-day political and financial life. It is the story of a son with high ideals and a father of the modern financier type, and the inevitable clash with its dire consequences. Mr. Sage is the author of "Robert Tournay," a story of the French Revolution; "The Claybornes," a story of the Civil War; and "Frenchy, the story of a Gentleman."

WILLIAM RITCHIE, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, will publish on the 10th inst. "The Mechanic," a romance of industrial America, by Allan McIvor, author of "The Overlord," describing the rise of an humble laboring man to the rank of a great captain of industry; also, "The Story of the Constitution of the United States," by Dr. Rossiter Johnson, who brings within the covers of a single handy volume the wonderfully interesting story of the origin, framing and adoption of our Constitution not hitherto available in such compact shape.

BOBBS-MERRILL CO. have ready for the trade "The Scarlet Empire," by David Maclean Parry, which tells the story of a young man of socialistic tendencies, who, thoroughly unfortunate in business, commits suicide. But here the gloom ceases. He awakes miles beneath the sea in a "lost Atlantis," which figures as "The Scarlet Empire." Here all is socialistic, controlled by the state. The people find themselves more in slavery than when they walked the earth, controlled by millionaires and "walking delegates." The details make a good story full of common sense made palatable by inventive imagination and attractive love complications.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "Joseph Jefferson—Reminiscences of a Fellow Player," by Francis Wilson, (illustrated,) intimate reminiscences of a sympathetic and general kind about Joseph Jefferson, his opinions, his experiences, and his ideas about acting, painting and life in general, told by one who was for many years the intimate friend and admirer of Jefferson; "Six Stars," by Nelson Lloyd, a delightful little story, the centre of which is a little Pennsylvania village, which contains more humor, originality, sentiment and interest than any other known place of its size, for which Howard Pyle, A. B. Frost, F. C. Ransom and Arthur Levering have furnished illustrations; also, "The Tower," by Mary Tappan Wright, a novel of the life of a college community, taken from the faculty side, which is a new point of view, told with remarkable insight and the most delicate art, the background being formed by the most humorous and delicate picture of the professors, their wives and daughters and the faculty life.

Capes, Bernard. The romance of Lohengrin, founded on Wagner's opera, by Bernard Capes; il. by Sarcadi Pogany. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1905. 14+271 p. front. 8°, cl., $2; 3/4 mor., $5.

Carter, Nathan Franklin. The native ministry of New Hampshire: the harvesting of more than thirty years. Concord, N. H., Rumford Printing Co., 1906. 4+1017 p. por. 8°, cl. and hf. mor., **$6 net.

Chamberlin, F: In the Shoe String country: a true picture of southern life. Bost., C. M. Clark Publishing Co., 1906. c. 15+353 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story has its scenes in Alabama, in 1900. Its title refers to the shape of its counties in the "black belt," which run across the state in the south, and were so arranged by one of the political parties in order to perpetrate election frauds. An election for Congress is one of the events of the story. It is accompanied by perjury and fraud of various kinds, murder, lynching, etc. There is a love story, with an attractive heroine, who has two admirers of opposite political faith. The one is an honorable man, the other a scoundrel. "Old Joe," a faithful negro servant, is a character.

Collier, J: The art of portrait painting; with 41 il. in col. and half-tone. N. Y., Cassell & Co., Ltd., 1905. 8+108 p. col. pls., 8°, cl., **$3.50 net.

Personal reminiscences of Dr. Henry A. Coit by one of his associates. Dr. Coit was born in 1831, educated at St. Paul's School, L. I., and at the University of Pennsylvania, and entered the Episcopal ministry. On the foundation of St. Paul's School at Concord, N. H., by Dr. George C. Shattuck in 1856, he was chosen its first rector. During his administration of nearly forty years the school grew to be one of the largest and best known private schools in the country. Dr. Coit died in 1895. An appendix contains various addresses, papers and letters.

Crawford, Esther. Cataloging: suggestions for the small public library. Chic., Library Bureau, 1906. 45 p. sq. D. pap., 25 c.

By the head cataloguer in the University of Nebraska Library, Lincoln. Suggestions were first presented in a paper read before the Ohio Library Association, Toledo, Aug. 9, 1899, and published in 1900. Present edition has been entirely rewritten and many new suggestions embodied.

Delbridge, C: Lomax. Delbridge 3½% savings bank interest tables: showing the interest on any sum from one dollar to two hundred thousand dollars by months from one month to twelve months at the rate of 3½% per annum. St. Louis, Mo., Delbridge Co., [1906.] c. 16 p. f°, cl., $5.

Devas, C: Stanton. The key to the world's progress: being an essay on historical logic. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 11+321 p. D. cl., **$1.60 net.

The Christian church is considered by the author as the key to the world's progress. He was formerly examiner in political economy at the Royal University of Ireland. He divides his work into eleven parts: The course of civilization; The course of Christianity; The church and culture; The church and prosperity; Christian morality; The church and the state; The social question; Scandals and sanctity; Liberty of conscience; Heretics and schismatics; Development; Defeat and victory; The explanation of the miraculous.

Dougherty, J. Hampden. The electoral system of the United States: its history, together with a study of the perils that have attended its operations, and an analysis of the several efforts by legislation to avert these perils, and a proposed remedy by amendment of the Constitution. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. 5+425 p. O. cl., **$2 net.

The author says in his introduction: "It is beside the purpose of these pages to attempt to determine where the Constitution intended to place the counting power. A century of discussion finds the advocates of antagonistic views convinced of the correctness of their own positions. The point to be emphasized is that the history of the nation, since the formation of the Union, demonstrates not only the breakdown of the system, but the peril of its continuance. The danger is intensified, not averted, by the act of 1887. In these circumstances, prudence dictates an amendment providing a radical cure. The belief that has inspired the preparation of this book is that the dangers of the electoral system are not commonly understood, and that, when once they are appreciated, the electoral system will be abolished."

Contents: Introduction by Dr. Paul Carus; History of natural magic and prestidigitation; The Chevalier Pinetti; Cagliostro, a study in charlatanism; Ghost-making extraordinary; The romance of Aturnata; Robert Houdin, conjurer, author and ambassador; Some old-time conjurers; The secrets of second sight; The confessions of an amateur conjurer; A day with Alexander the Great; A twentieth century thaumaturgist; A gentleman of Thibet; Magicians I have met; The riddle of the sphinx; Treyweyism.

Fechner, Gustav Theodor. On life after death; from the German by Dr. Hugo Werneke. New ed., rev. and enl. Chic., Open Court Publishing Co., 1906. c. 134 p. por. S. cl., **$1.50 net.

This is a revision of the translation which first appeared in 1882 and was presented to the author on his eightieth birthday. This edition is slightly altered, chiefly by omissions characteristic of the author's mental development. A list of the omissions, however, is given in Appendix II. While this edition was in preparation, another translation, the work of Maria C. Wadsworth, was published by Little, Brown & Co. For plan of work of Dr. Fechner, see "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 22, '04, [1708.]

Fish, Arthur. Henrietta Rae, (Mrs. Ernest Normand;) 8 reproductions in col. and 32 other il. N. Y., Cassell & Co., Ltd., 1905. 9-120 p. col. pl., pors. 8°, cl., **$1.50 net.

The author spent three years in the Philippines, stationed as teacher and division superintendent in various parts of the island of Luzon. As he also travelled extensively, he had excellent opportunities to study the Filipino as pupil and citizen. He hopes his book will result in a better appreciation of Filipino character, "a stronger conviction of the unwise of granting, at this time, any greater degree of self-government than the Filipinos already possess, and a further understanding of the work that is being done in the public schools in the attempt to fit the people for the eventual exercise of complete autonomy." Methods of teaching are described and the attitude of the Filipino as pupil.

Frothingham, Eugenia Brooks. The evasion. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 2+415 p. D. cl., **$1.50.

By the author of "The turn in the road." A story of the Boston rich and idle, devoted to poker and bridge and other frivolous practices. In the early chapters, two young men engage at their club in a game of poker. It becomes evident that some cheating has been going on, and these two young men are objects of suspicion. There is an investigation, in which the guilty man manages to have himself declared innocent, the other too proud to protest his innocence is held guilty. They are both just entering life, and both love the same girl. The poker episode ruins the life, socially, of the innocent man, who is held guilty. He is very rich, and devotes his money and time to reforming the working people. Being not only a socialist, but an atheist, people find it easy to believe anything bad of him. He is the chief character of the novel.

In a quaint old English town lives Geraldine's father. He is compiling a dictionary. This is the sole ambition and pleasure of his life. The dictionary and the "book-worms" working on it have for many years been Geraldine's only friends. She has never had any female companionship, and knows nothing of her mother; even the servants in her home are men. When at last considered worthy to take her place on the dictionary she rebels, to her father's great astonishment, and wants to be an actress. A handsome young man comes from Australia and finds an unexpected place in her life, and she makes the acquaintance of a celebrated actress. Both these people have a strong effect upon her story.

Drawing upon the impressions of twenty years spent in Southern California, along the shore or in the Sierra Madre, the author tries to convey some idea of life in the open in the various seasons, what to expect in winter and summer. Not only are hunting and fishing exploits described, but also the natural beauties of flowers and fruit, the wonderful roadways, the variations in climate, the missions, and the scenic marvels. Appendices contain statistical information about the principal towns, table recording temperature of air and water during a year on Catalina Island, game laws, etc. Illustrated by numerous half-tones, handsomely bound and boxed. Author has also written "Life of Charles Darwin," "The big game fishes," etc.

This is the second of a series of four books which will give the results of the author's examination of the actual working, in important instances, of the public regulation and the government ownership and operation of the so-called public service industries; the railway, the telegraph, the street railway, the electric light, the electric power plant, and the telephone. The investigations in question have been carried on since the fall of 1892, and they have covered the United States, Great Britain, Germany, and Australia. The books embodying the results of the investigation will follow each other in quick succession.

Millard, T. F. The new Far East: an examination into the new position of Japan and her influence upon the solution of the Far Eastern question, with special reference to the interests of America and the future of the Chinese Empire. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. [Mr.] c. '05, '06. 12+319 p. O. cl., **$1.50 net.

Material for this work was gathered in the course of several sojourns in the Far East, made during the last six years. All the localities affected by recent events have been visited by the author, sometimes as an observer and participant in those events. He believes that the peace between Japan and Russia, far from settling the Far Eastern question, leaves it in almost as unsettled a state as before hostilities began, and that the details of the settlement must be worked out in the future of the Chinese Empire and Korea. After considering the true position of Japan, and different phases of the war, Japan's interests in Korea and Manchuria are discussed and the foreign policies in China with a sketch of the New China and, lastly, America's position and policy. Three appendices give the text of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, the Russo-Japanese treaty, and the Japan-Korea agreement. Much of the matter has already appeared in Scribner's.

Ferdinand von Saar was born in Vienna, Sept. 30, 1833. He has written tragedies, novels, dramas, novelettes, many of them dealing with Austrian life. "Die steinklopfer" was written in 1869, but not published until 1873. "The novel is significant in the history of German literature," says the introduction, "in that it is the first arbeiternovelle. It is a beautiful tale of plebeian life, dealing with grim facts and conditions, which do not depress, however, because we see here, even among the lowliest of humanity, pure, throbbing human passions and noble impulses." Prof. Handschin is professor of the German language and literature of Miami University, and Prof. Roelder is assistant professor of German philosophy in the University of Wisconsin.

Sadlier, Mrs. Anna Theresa. The mystery of Hornby Hall. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1906. c. 3-214 p. D. cl., 85 c.

For years Hornby Hall was known as the seat of a mystery. Just what it was had never been explained. There were rumors of robberies and murders and ghosts, but no one could be found to tell an authentic story of the grim old man and his frightened looking little grandchild, who inhabited the Hall. The little girl's uncle, living some distance from the Hall, determines one day to make an investigation, and rescue the poor child from her depressing surroundings. Many things happen and a most remarkable story is unearthed. For Catholic readers.

The kingdom of Mathura in India was early known as the land of Braj. It was the birthplace of the Hindu deity Krishna, and was and is visited by thousands of holy pilgrims yearly. The author gives a sketch of the physical, traditional, historical and religious features of the land at the present day, and an account of the establishment of the Mathura Mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1889, and the remarkable work it has accomplished.

Seawell, Molly Elliot. The Chateau of Montplaisir. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. 4+245 p. il. D. cl., †$1.25.

Louis Victor de Latour finds himself one day heir to the family mansion of his ancestors, the Chateau of Montplaisir, near Dinard, France. He is sadly disappointed upon visiting it to discover it is in a hopeless state of ruin, inside and out. While meditating how he shall rid himself of this useless incumbrance, he receives a call from an old gentleman, bearing the name of Latour, who has accumulated great wealth making soap. He wants to be known as a relative of the young man, whom he offers to adopt as his nephew, settle a sum of money upon, and repair the chateau. The scenes that ensue belong to high comedy. They include the old man's love affairs, his efforts to penetrate the higher circles, and the frolics of the younger Latour.

Woods, D: Walker, jr. John Witherspoon. N. Y. and Chic., Revell, [1906.] c. 295 p. por. O. cl., *$1.50 net.

John Witherspoon, a lineal descendant of John Knox, was born in Scotland in 1722. His life is notable in connection with four important movements. The author, who is his great-grandson, divides his work into four periods, showing the part played by Witherspoon in the struggle for popular rights in the Church of Scotland; the administration of Princeton College, as its president; the organization of the American Presbyterian Church; as the signer of the Declaration of Independence, and an active man in the conduct of the Revolution. Prof. Woods had exceptional opportunities for consulting rare public documents.

New ed., rev. and considerably enl.; 178 il. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1906. c. 101 p. 16°, pap., 25 c.

Intended to be of special value to amateur woodworkers and trade apprentices, although even advanced workmen may find useful practical hints. Thirty new illustrations have been added to this edition.

Wordsworth, Elizabeth. Psalms for the Christian festivals. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 13+140 p. D. cl., *$1 net.

Addresses by the Principal of Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford, on the Psalms appointed by the English church to be read on Christmas Day, Easter, Ascension and Whitsunday. They were first given to a class of lady students at Oxford, in or about 1897. The addresses aim to illustrate "the bearing of the Psalms on great doctrinal truths, as well as their fitness to minister to the needs of individuals, and their relation to our personal lives."

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF BOOKS AND OTHER PRINTED MATTER.

THE summary statement of the value of the imports and exports of books and other printed matter of the United States for the month ending January, 1906, and for the seven months ending the same, compared with the corresponding periods of 1905, makes the following showing as regards books, music, maps, engravings, etchings, photographs, and other printed matter:

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 7, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE SECOND-HAND BOOKSELLER'S SOURCES OF SUPPLY.*

BESIDES buying books over the counter the dealer in old books must also seek his supplies in the purchase of private libraries and in the auction room. Of these sources, perhaps, the purchase of private libraries during the lifetime of their owners is the most desirable. A collector, as a rule, has a fair knowledge of the value of his collection, and while he may be keen to get the highest possible price for his collection, he is also fully conscious of the uncertainty of the fate of libraries when they are thrown into the market or into the auction room, and may be induced to consider a reasonable offer. In the more frequent cases, when the library is offered for sale by the heirs of a collector, the task of valuing the collection is not likely to be so easy or so pleasant, because in most cases a man's family has either a very exaggerated opinion of the value of his books, or is quite ignorant of their value, and therefore intent upon getting even more for them than those of the former class.

In estimating the value of a considerable number of good books it might be desirable to make a rough list, in case the owner should not have prepared one, which can be priced at his leisure by the bookseller or by one of his assistants. Every collection may be divided into three classes, (1) rare or standard books, (2) books for which there is less frequent demand, and (3) books and miscellanea which must probably be sent to the paper mill. The first class will no doubt be priced high, the second class medium or low, and the third class not at all. It is the practice of some dealers to make two prices—a minimum price, or the lowest they dare to offer, and a maximum price, or one beyond which they will positively not advance, and which is generally based on the presence in the collection of a sufficient number of books which the bookseller knows he may readily dispose of.

It need hardly be pointed out that the appraisal of any large collection of books, with or without the aid of bibliographic reference works, depends upon a more or less exact knowledge of books, an almost unfailing memory of values, and, last, but not least, a certain instinct, or scent, that will enable the appraiser, almost at a glance, to differentiate the valuable from the worthless. It will require many years' experience and much study to become proficient in this difficult art, and the novice will no doubt suffer many defeats and losses before he can become expert enough to do justice to himself as well as to those with whom he is dealing. As we said before, it is more difficult to buy good books than to sell them, and the task of buying is never made easy for the bookseller. Time and again he is called upon to appraise a collection either in the library of the owner or by pricing lists submitted to him, only to find that his tedious work has been in vain, or that his estimates have been used as a lever with which to "jack up" the prices of his competitors. In cases where he is expected to appraise a desirable collection the bookseller would be quite within his rights if, before fixing his prices, he were to demand the option of either meeting, or, if desirable, raising the bids of his competitors.

Buying books at auction is a simpler matter and is attended with less risk than is the purchase of entire libraries. As a rule auction catalogues are published a week or two before the sales take place, so that the bookseller may at his leisure check such books as he may wish to procure either for himself or on commission, and decide upon the prices at which he may profitably buy them. Then, too, several days before the sale he is offered an opportunity to inspect the books themselves, and, when dealing with a responsible auctioneer, is secured against the risk of having defective books foisted upon him if he be prompt in collating them and reporting the defects within the time allowed by the auctioneers—usually ten days.

About the only objection that may be raised against buying books at auction is the apparent waste of valuable time; yet in many cases the bookseller is well repaid for his personal attendance at a sale or for being represented by a reliable proxy. Bids that are left with the auctioneer, or entrusted to a second or third rate assistant, are inflexible. An unscrupulous or impatient auctioneer may be tempted to start bidding with the maximum bid left with him, and a dummy representative dare not go beyond the prescribed price, even though the advance might be profitable. This can be judged only by the principal or an expert assistant. Then, too, "snooping" among the lots displayed while an auction sale is going on has often been rewarded in the discovery of an unsuspected treasure. It was in this way that Henry Stevens discovered a copy of the Bay Psalm Book in a package of shabby pamphlets during the Pickering sale. Besides, no undue amount of time need now be taken up at an auction sale, when the dealer lives in or near the city in which the sale takes place, because, as a rule, one may form an approximate idea of the time in which the auctioneer will arrive at certain lots.

Two other sources of supply need only be referred to, as they are not often drawn upon by the dealer in old books; we have in mind the publisher who desires to unload "remainders" for cash, and the stock of other dealers in old books. The "remainder bookseller" is an institution in England as is the "Modernes Antiquariat" in Germany; but in the United States "remainders" have thus far found an outlet through sources other than the dealer in old books, because such stock requires for its proper handling and distribution machinery that the average second-hand bookseller either has not or does not care to control.

The study of his colleagues' catalogues should always prove interesting and profitable to a dealer in old books, as opportunities are bound to offer themselves to round out and make more valuable certain special collections already in stock and occasionally to pick up a bargain.

As we remarked before, the buying of good books is a more difficult matter than the selling of them. Opportunities do not often present themselves, especially in large cities or intellectual centres, and the bookseller must therefore, besides cultivating good connections, be alert in every direction, submit cheerfully to many disappointments, and take many steps in vain in search for treasures. While we would encourage enterprise even in bidding for the library of a collector recently deceased, we would deprecate the jackal propensity of some to sit on the doorstep of the house of mourning, before the body has become fairly cold, leaving some such message as this: "Should the estate of the late — — comprise a library, and if it is your intention to dispose of same, I will be glad to examine it, with a view of purchasing it for cash." In the face of such lack of feeling and coarse commercialism we would almost become reconciled to the conservative bookseller, who rarely leaves his shop, and is content to fish for books with the time-worn bait—a sign in his window reading thus:

I Buy Good Books and Libraries
at the Highest Cash Prices.

THE BERNE CONVENTION PROTECTS COPYRIGHT IN CANADA.

An interesting judgment was rendered by Justice Fortin at Montreal, on March 24, in the case of Jules Mary, a French novelist, who sued the Compagnie de Reproduction Litteraire, of Montreal, for the unauthorized publication of one of his works, "Tante Berceuse."

Justice Fortin ruled that England being one of the contracting nations at the convention at Berne, the international copyright law was applicable to all the British colonies, and that consequently, the plaintiff was protected in Canada, although he had not conformed with the requirements of the Canadian copyright law.

The result of this decision is that henceforth anyone reproducing without due authorization, in Canada any copyrighted literature or work of art, originating in any country in the Berne convention will be liable to prosecution.

The suit upon which Justice Fortin has just rendered judgment was instituted by M. Mary at the instigation of a Parisian organization, known as "The Syndicate of Literary and Art Societies for the Protection of Intellectual Property." For many years it has been the practice in Canada to reproduce, either in book form or by serials, copyrighted French works without authorization from the authors. It is also alleged that French plays have been represented on the stage in the same manner. In the case of other works of art, violation of the copyright law has not been so noticeable, although numerous offences have been recorded.

Last year the Parisian Syndicate, upon learning of the liberty taken in Canada with copyrighted matter, decided to make a test case. M. Mary, whose novel had been reprinted without authorization by the "Compagnie de Reproduction Litteraire of Montreal," was induced to act as plaintiff. The case was placed in the hands of an attorney with instructions to push it to the highest court, if necessary. Hearing on the merits took place at the end of last January before Justice Fortin, sitting in the Superior Court.

GERMAN UNDERSELLING DEFEATED DECISION IN THE SUIT OF RE- CLAM VS. NUSBAUM.

HANS HEINRICH RECLAM, of the firm of Philipp Reclam, Jr., at Leipzig, brought suit in December, 1905, against the firm of Nusbaum, a department store in Halle on-the-Saale, in the Provincial Court at Naumburg on-the-Saale, to restrain the defendant from selling the parts of the Reclam Universal-Bibliothek at less than twenty pfennigs the part. The court, in January of this year, issued an injunction restraining the defendant, with payment of costs. The firm of Nusbaum has appealed from the decision.

The firm of Philipp Reclam, Jr., is a member of the Börsenverein der deutschen Buchhändler, (the German Booksellers' Society,) which, in July, 1895, adopted certain rules and regulations binding upon its members, among which is one regulation restraining members of the Börsenverein from selling books, etc., without permission of the publisher, to booksellers and others who may have been excluded from the privileges of the Börsenverein. The Board of Directors of the Börsenverein, furthermore, has published a rule specially providing that no books may be retailed by its members to any firms that offer them for sale to the public at excessive discounts against the expressed wishes of their publishers.

The majority of booksellers in Germany are members of the Börsenverein and, therefore, aware of and amenable to its rules.

The Nusbaum firm offered several parts of the Universal-Bibliothek at fifteen pfennigs, a course, which was regarded by Reclam as damaging to his reputation and business interests, a breach of good morals (gute sitten) and a violation of his copyrights. Furthermore, according to the Civil Code the firm of Reclam considered the defendant's acts as illegitimate competition.

The defendant did not deny retailing the parts of the Universal-Bibliothek at fifteen pfennigs, but denied that he was bound to maintain the price fixed by the plaintiff. Regarding the contention of the plaintiff that he sustained damages by the course of the defendant, the Nusbaum firm held that Reclam must seek redress from the firm which broke its contract, but claimed that he was not bound to disclose his source of supply. The defendant further held that plaintiff lost all control over his books when he sold them, and in general denied all other allegations made against him.

Reclam replied that inasmuch as the action of the defendant was done purposely to depreciate the value of his publications the action was an offense against good morals. The plaintiff offered proof that the book-trade in general, considering its business jeopardized by the action of the defendant, was inclined to withdraw its support, not only from the Universal-Bibliothek, but also from the many other and higher-priced of the plaintiff's publications and his magazine, unless he took measures to prevent such underselling, and that by such action the plaintiff's business would be seriously restricted, if not ruined. As to his rights to a large number of his publications under the provision of the copyright law Reclam offered a number of the parts of his Universal-Bibliothek as evidence of his exclusive right to their publication.

The court in its finding admitted proof of the premeditated damage of the plaintiff's interests by the defendant, and practically every other contention of the plaintiff. As to the defendant's claim that not being under contract to maintain the plaintiff's prices the plaintiff had no remedy except to sue the contracting party for damages, the court held that the Civil Code, under certain circumstances, did provide a remedy for damages to a merchant whether the damages were caused by a contracting party or by another. The court considered that the plaintiff had proven that his connections with that portion of the trade upon whom he depended for a development of his entire publishing business had been injured by the acts of the defendant, who only distributed the most popular of the plaintiff's publications and those at a price that was certain to unsettle the confidence of the booktrade and of the public in Reclam's reputation for fair dealing, not only locally, but over the whole country. Whether this damage was caused purposely or not did not, in the opinion of the court, change the situation. It assumed that a firm engaged in a mercantile enterprise of the dimensions of that of Nusbaum must be aware that by underselling the bookseller he also damages the publisher—Reclam in this instance. The Court, therefore, ordered the injunction. The case is reported in full in the Börsenblatt for March 7, 1906.

THE ENGLISH PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE Publishers' Association of Great Britain and Ireland held its annual meeting at the Stationers' Hall, on March 22, under the chairmanship of Reginald J. Smith, upwards of fifty firms being represented. In its review the council reported that the year has been satisfactory. While it was necessary in several cases to give warning to undersellers, in no case was it found necessary to resort to extreme measures. One firm whose name was "posted" in 1900 has been readmitted to its former position in obtaining supplies of net books.

The Times Book Club has been one of the trying propositions of the year. The club has withdrawn advertising matter to which the booksellers objected. While the principal circulating libraries have expressed their willingness to adopt a six months' limit for the sale of second-hand net books, The Times Book Club, however, refuses to adopt this rule, preferring to consider a book as second-hand "where it has been used by more than two subscribers, and when it is returned in such a state that it cannot be sold as a new book."

The election of officers resulted in the choice of Edward Bell, president; C. J. Longman, vice-president, and William Heinemann, hon. treasurer.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PUBLISHERS.

THE International Congress of Publishers to be held at Milan, June 6-10, this year, will be opened with a reading of the report of the Permanent Bureau of the Congress by H. Morel. This will be followed by a report on "Trade Schools," by E. Bruylant; "Custom Taxes and Licence-Fees for Commercial Travellers in Different Countries," by T. Fisher Unwin; "Custom Taxes on Announcements and Catalogs sent through the Mails," by T. Fisher Unwin; "Publishing Contracts," by E. Treves; "Export and Re-import of Books," by U. Hoepli; "Legal Deposits and Legal Holidays," by P. Valiardi; "International Bibliography of Art," by S. Schwartz, and other reports if they can be got ready.

SUITS AGAINST MACY'S ARGUED ON APPEAL.

THE two cases brought respectively by the Bobbs-Merrill Company and by Charles Scribner's Sons against Macy's were argued on appeal this week at the United States Circuit Court of Appeals before Judges Wallace, Coxe and Townsend. It will be remembered that the contention of both complainants is that under the protection granted by the copyright law, publishers had the right to provide conditions as to the sale of the books copyrighted under agreements with notice to dealers. The appeal was from the decision of Judge Ray, who refused in July last year the relief asked for by both complainants.

AN INTERNATIONAL DIRECTORY OF BOOKSELLERS.

JAMES CLEGG, Rochdale, Eng., has just brought out a new edition of his "International Directory of Booksellers and Bibliophile's Manual," which includes, also, lists of the public libraries of the world, publishers, book collectors, learned societies and institutions, universities and colleges. Mr. Clegg's directory, now practically the only one of its kind in the English language, improves, we are pleased to note, with each issue, but it is still beset with many weaknesses and inconsistencies that ought to give way in a careful and intelligent revision. In a cursory glance we note, for example, that the W. Millard Palmer Co., of Grand Rapids, Mich., is included among the Baltimore booksellers, and that the following firms that have gone out of business are still listed among the New York booksellers: Wilbur B. Ketcham Publishing Co., The Perkins Book Company, Charles T. Dillingham, no longer in business on his own account, but agent for the subscription department of Little, Brown & Co.; and Edwin Dayton, who is now a stationer and dealer in fine art goods and novelties rather than a bookseller. W. B. Norman is listed as a book auctioneer, though he is only a general auctioneer, and D. & J. Sadlier & Co. are given as Sadlier, at 74 instead of at 73 Murray Street. Several addresses of New York firms were changed, we suppose, too late for correction in this issue.

We also find the J. B. Lippincott Company and G. P. Putnam's Sons listed among the dealers in second-hand books in London. The directory would gain much in usefulness if the booksellers and the publishers of the United States were listed separately, as is done in the case of the Book Publishers in the United Kingdom. The list of Book Collectors is rather too inclusive of booksellers, and the list of Book and Library Catalogues, Trade Journals, etc., was obsolete at least ten years ago. The list of American Journals of the Book Trade also needs pruning and correcting. Such lists as the last mentioned, to be of any service at all, should be up-to-date and absolutely correct, or they should be dropped altogether. Mr. Clegg has been industrious since the issue of his first directory in 1886, a slender volume of 72 pages. His present volume numbers 478 pages, exclusive of about 50 pages of advertising matter more or less related to the subject. There are listed 10,201 booksellers, 1775 publishers, 4319 libraries, and 4533 miscellaneous, making in all a total of 20,828 addresses of persons engaged in publishing, selling and buying books in Europe and America. That such a work cannot be absolutely complete or correct is self-evident; but even within its limitations the work, as it now stands, might be better rounded out, and be made more correct, if every user of it would co-operate with its editor and promptly report errors of commission and omission. The American publishers of the Directory are Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

BAN ON DR. BARRY'S BOOKS.

THE Holy Office at Rome is preparing a solemn condemnation of the works of certain writers throughout the world which have been inspired by the principles of the Abbé Loisy.

Up to the present time no American books have been condemned.

Two English authors are mentioned—the Rev. Dr. William Barry and the former Jesuit priest Terrill. Dr. William Barry is one of the best-known Roman Catholic priests in England. He is rector of the Church of St. Birinus, Dorchester, and has been a professor at Birmingham Theological College and Oscott College. In 1893 he came to America and delivered a number of addresses in this country. His most celebrated book is "The New Antigone," a novel which, published anonymously in 1887, created an immediate and profound sensation. He has written various other works, including "The Papal Monarchy" and volumes on Newman and Renan.

The Vatican's campaign against the Abbé Loisy began three years ago, previous to which time his books had been tolerated, if not welcomed, by the authorities at Rome. He is one of the most learned priests of the Roman Catholic Church. He has arrived at the conclusion that the Old Testament is much of it valueless as historical record. He also declares that the Christian religion falls to the ground in the light of modern research, but that out of the destruction a new and greater Christianity can be raised.

YOUNG O'CONNOR DISAPPEARS AS HIS FATHER DID.

TWELVE years ago, on March 23, Patrick O'Connor, a well-known dealer in old books in Hoboken, N. J., disappeared and has never been heard of since. Last week, on March 28, his son, John O'Connor, also disappeared, and all efforts to trace his whereabouts have thus far been unsuccessful. The son, a draftsman, like his father, was a "book worm," and spent all of his spare time in the study of old literature.

OBITUARY NOTES.

ARTHUR WELLINGTON TYLER, well-known in library circles, died in the Muhlenberg Hospital, at Plainfield, N. J., on March 27. Mr. Tyler was born in Pittsfield, Mass., March 14, 1842, and was graduated from Amherst College in 1867. He was for a time connected with the editorial staff of the New York Mail and Moore's Rural New Yorker. He then became connected with the Astor Library in New York, and from 1876 to 1879 was librarian of the Johns Hopkins University Library. From 1879 to 1883 Mr. Tyler was librarian of the Indianapolis Public Library, and during the following two years held a similar position at the Quincy, Ill., Public Library. Subsequently, he organized the Plainfield Public Library and also the Public Library at Branford, Conn. The last position he held was assistant to the librarian of the Carnegie Library at Washington, D. C.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Sahanachy is the title of a new literary and artistic annual devoted to the work of Irish authors and artists. Stephen Gwynn, Mr. Yeats and G. B. Shaw are contributing to the first number. It is to be published in Dublin.

THE leading contribution to the Winter number of Poet Lore is a translation of Gorki's drastic play, "A Night's Lodging," (Nachtasyl.) This is the only English translation of this notable play, which was performed 775 times in Germany during 1904 and 1905, and is a leading feature in the repertory of the Russian players now acting in New York.

THE employees of the Brooklyn, (N. Y.) Rapid Transit Company, on March 31, issued the first number of The Third Rail, a monthly magazine which is to be devoted chiefly to the interests of the men who work on the cars and in the shops and stations of the railroad company. The first number is filled with bright and interesting matter, most of it being contributed by the railroad men themselves.

The Printing Art for March, published by the University Press, Cambridge, Mass., contains the remarks on "Some Revivals in Printing in the xixth Century," addressed by D. B. Updike, of the Merrymount Press, to the Massachusetts Library Association in January of this year; an article on "The Art of the Wood Engraver," by James B. Carrington, besides editorial and other notes. The color plates and other specimens of typographic art are unusually attractive.

The Journal of the Outdoor Life, published at Trudeau, N. Y., in the Adirondack Mountains, has been made the official organ of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, of which Dr. Herman M. Biggs, medical director of the New York City Health Department, is president. The membership of the association includes the leading workers in the field of tuberculosis, both lay and professional, throughout the United States and Canada. The Journal of the Outdoor Life aims to be helpful to persons suffering from or having a tendency toward lung trouble. It deals with the outdoor treatment of tuberculosis in an intelligent and scientific manner, and, while not advocating self-treatment by the laity, or attempting to supplant personal medical advice, it points out some of the common pitfalls that beset the unwary healthseeker. It advocates fresh air, nourishing food, carefully regulated exercise and competent medical supervision. The Journal is not devoted exclusively to the subject of tuberculosis, but aims to publish readable, practicable and useful articles on how to get the most benefit, satisfaction and happiness from an outdoor life. The subscription price is one dollar a year, or ten cents a copy.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

A CORRESPONDENT of The Critic writes "People here [New York] don't seem to know what in Boston is no secret, as I take it, that 'Sidney McCall' is Mr. and Mrs. (second) Ernest Fenollosa. He would naturally be able to write about Japan. He (she-they!) wrote 'Truth-Dexter' and 'The Breath of the Gods,' an Americo-Japanese story."

The Critic is authority for the statement that Jeremiah Curtin now translates Sienkiewicz's works direct from the Polish manuscript before the book is published in any language and, that in this way, English and American editions will be on the market three years before they appear in any other language.

IT has been reported that Maxim Gorky, the famous Russian peasant writer and patriot, who figured so prominently in the Russian riots, is planning to visit America. There has been published a very interesting and complete life of Gorky by the famous English journalist, E. J. Dillon, which gives an estimate of the man's work, as well as his personality.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Smith, who is well and favorably known to the retail trade of Springfield and vicinity, and James Q. Browne, who has been the manager of Browne Brothers since the firm started more than ten years ago, will retain the management of the business.

OLD BOOK NOTES.

In the destruction by fire in February of the Villa of Santa Petronilla, at Perugia, Italy, many rare books and much valuable tapestry, for which Perugia was famous, were irretrievably lost.

A copy of Lord John Russell's suppressed novel, "The Nun of Arronea," has just turned up in an English bookseller's catalogue. This is the story to which Disraeli thus referred in his "Runnymede Letter" addressed to Lord John in 1836: "Your ambition sought from prose fiction the fame which has been denied to your lyre, and your intellect in consequence produced the feeblest romance in our literature."

A bookseller in New Oxford Street, London, recently sustained a serious loss through the accidental sale of a rare book to an unknown purchaser for sixpence. The book in question was an original copy of the "Secret History of the Court of England," by Lady Anne Hamilton, published in 1832. At the time of its publication the book was suppressed by the authorities and very few copies are known to exist. The value of the copy is more or less problematic, but it was regarded by the owner as the most treasured volume in his shop. It was kept in a glass case at the back of the shop, but while the proprietor was himself absent for a time an assistant, who was dusting the contents of the case, took down the book and apparently neglected to replace it. Unfortunately for the owner the book by some accident got into a box in which were some volumes for sale at 6d. each. It can only be assumed that, the book having entirely disappeared, a customer chose it—possibly not realizing its value—and, paying his sixpence, took it away. A reward of £15 is offered for the return of the volume. This bookseller's loss serves to recall the famous lucky venture of the late Dr. John Taylor Brown, who secured for 1s. 6d. a "Kilmarnock Burns," which almost ranks in importance with a first folio Shakespeare. Dr. Taylor Brown, in the course of his perambulation, visited a North Country bookstall a few decades ago and picked up a copy, for which he paid, as already said, 1s. 6d. It was minus the title-page and the first three pages, but the doctor bided his time. In a few years he was able to acquire another incomplete copy, almost a bundle of pages, for about £21, but the missing pages of the first copy were there. The book was made up, and to no one but the expert the transformation was visible. Upon his death Dr. Brown's library was sold, in April, 1903, at Sotheby's, and the astute doctor's executors received £350 for the volume. A substantial sum was received for the broken-up copy, and after payment of expenses a net sum of £333 was realized.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

KARSLAKE & CO., London, propose, if enough subscriptions are pledged, to reprint the first volume of their series of "Book Auction Records," which was originally edited by other hands than their own and published under the title of "Sale Records." The volume was unsatisfactory in many particulars, and it is now proposed to re-edit the material and bring it out in one alphabet to match the second volume. They will also print the records for the season of 1903-1904 to form volume 1, part 2, so that the series of "Book Auction Records" may be complete from June, 1902, to the present time.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

Ginn & Co. will publish shortly Professor Myer's "General History" as finally revised by the author.

McClure, Phillips & Co. are bringing out their important "Life of Pasteur," by R. Valery-Radot, in a single volume edition, at a popular price.

WALTER S. ROCKEY CO., New York City, will publish on the 15th inst. "The Phantom of the Poles," a book by William Reed, dealing with the question of Arctic and Antarctic investigation from an original view-point.

J. F. MEEHAN, the Bath bookseller, in his latest instalment of "Famous Buildings of Bath and District," printed serially, in The Beacon, treats of George Cruikshank, the famous illustrator, and his sketches of men and things in Bath.

THE title of Lady Henry Somerset's new novel, "Under the Arch," which has just been published by Doubleday, Page & Co., comes from one of Rossetti's poems:

"Under the arch of life where love and death,
Terror and mystery, guard her shrine, I saw Beauty enthroned."

ANTHONY TREHERNE & CO., London, will publish in the fall "The Literary History of the Adelphi and its Neighborhood," by Austin

Brereton, who has resided in the Adelphi for some eight years, and who has been fortunate in obtaining access to an extensive and unique collection of material relating to that part of London.

THE ROBERT CLARKE COMPANY, Cincinnati, have just brought out a new book by John James Piatt, entitled "How the Bishop Built His College in the Woods." It tells of the founding and building of Kenyon College at Gambier, Ohio, by the first Bishop of that state, Philander Chase. It is the story of a heroic episode in the history of education.

THE LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD CO. have just received from Dr. Everett T. Tomlinson the ms. of a juvenile, entitled "Four Boys in the Yellowstone," the first volume of Our Own Land Series. In this important series Dr. Tomlinson will, by the travels and good times of his characters, teach an actual knowledge of the United States as few are qualified to do.

FOX, DUFFIELD & COMPANY are printing new editions of all titles on the list of Herbert S. Stone & Company which have of late been out of stock, but for which there has been a demand from the trade. They bespeak the consideration of the trade during the interval necessary to supply such stock in full, and offer their assurances that shortages will not occur hereafter.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. publish this week "The Spur," G. B. Lancaster's new story, fully described in our issue of March 24; also, "A Woman's Heart," by Olive Ransom, spoken of as "the intimate revelation of a woman's passionate love for a man bound by priestly vows. They have postponed the publication of Mrs. Myrta Lockett Avary's "Dixie After the War" until the autumn.

THE Committee in charge of the sixth annual banquet of the American Booksellers' Association, to be held May 16, report that the prospects are such as warrant them in predicting that the attendance will be much larger than that of any of the previous successful banquets. Among the guests will be Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress; F. Hopkinson Smith, and several others of equal prominence.

JOHN LANE COMPANY will add to their Living Masters of Music, a series of monographs dealing with contemporary musical life, edited by Rosa Newmarch, a volume on Theodor Leschetizsky, the Polish pianist, composer and tutor, by Annette Hullah, who reviews the story of Leschetizsky's career from his birth, in 1830, down to the present day. The volume contains several pictures of the pianist, as well as some showing him with certain pupils.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will publish on the 18th inst. Gelett Burgess's whimsical romance, "A Little Sister of Destiny," and Gamaliel Bradford, Jr.'s novel, "Between Two Masters." They will publish early in May two books which have not previously been announced—"Science and Idealism," by Professor Hugo Münsterberg, being his recent Harvard address at Yale; and a little volume of studies on "The Reading of Shakespeare," by Professor James M. Hoppin, of Yale University.

ARTHUR RACKHAM, the well-known English artist, whose illustrations of "Rip Van Winkle" created a great impression both in England and in this country, has undertaken the commission to illustrate Rudyard Kipling's new book, "Puck of Pook's Hill," which will be brought out in the fall by Doubleday, Page & Company. The selection of Mr. Rackham for this work is regarded as especially happy, as the delicate fancy of "Puck of Pook's Hill" will find a sympathetic interpreter in him.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 11th inst. "The Princess Olga," by Ervin Wardman, a tale of adventure, in which a young American engineer matches his sturdy common sense against a woman's wiles; the second volume of Mark Twain's Library of Humor, entitled "Women and Things;" "The Rise of the New West," by Professor Fred. Jackson Turner, forming volume 14 of The American Nation; also, the Collected Library edition, in five octavo volumes, of "The Tragedies of Algernon Charles Swinburne."

PAUL ELDER & COMPANY, San Francisco, Cal., have in press two initial volumes of a series of nature books which are to be a distinctive feature among their forthcoming publications. One of these is "The Garden Book of California," by Belle Sumner Angier, of Los Angeles, which will cover the general subject of home-gardening with particular reference to local conditions. The other volume is a revised and enlarged edition of Charles Keeler's "Bird Notes Afield." Both volumes will be adequately illustrated and decorated and will be ready this spring.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will bring out next month W. S. Harword's new book, "The New Earth," which is described as an account of the remarkable progress which has been made in the past two generations in all that pertains to the cultivation of the earth. A. C. Benson's life of "Walter Pater" is announced for early issue in the English Men of Letters series. Mr. Benson, who wrote the excellent life of "Rossetti" in the same series, has in the absence of any official biography of Pater collected the information as to the events of the life from Pater's relatives and friends.

AUGUSTUS RALPH KELLER, president of the A. R. Keller Company, with offices in the Fuller Building, was arrested on April 2 charged with being a fugitive from justice. Later he was released on $5000 bail after a controversy over the magistrate's right to admit a prisoner to bail when application for his extradition had been made by the authorities of another State. The charges against the prisoner were based on the complaint of George Gebbie, president of the Gebbie Publishing Company, and alleged that Keller had misappropriated $10,000 worth of books and other property of the Gebbie Publishing Company.

D. C. HEATH & COMPANY have in preparation a useful little book for geometry classes in secondary schools. The author is D. Sands Wright, of the Iowa State Normal School, and the work consists of a series of supplementary exercises, which are adapted to use with any of the regular text-books in geometry. This book will meet the demands of the more progressive teachers who wish to provide their classes with ample material for drill and review. Wright's "Problems in Geometry" will perform the same service for geometry classes that McCurdy's "Exercise Book in Algebra," issued by the same publishers, has accomplished for classes in algebra for several years.

THE REILLY & BRITTON Co., Chicago, will publish shortly a novelty gift-book, entitled "The Girl Graduate—Her Own Book," designed by Miss Louise Perrett and Miss Sarah K. Smith, two young artists of Chicago. "The Girl Graduate" provides a book in which a girl may keep a record of her school or college career. There are some twenty ornamental headings, under which are to be entered the Date of Graduation, Class Flower, Colors, Yell, etc. Spaces are also provided for photographs, autographs, programmes, invitations, pieces of "her gown," and other similar treasures, as well as for notes of social events, presents received, jokes and frolics, names of teachers, and the general "doings" of "the girls."

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY, Philadelphia, have just brought out an Author's Autograph edition of "Old Time Notes of Pennsylvania," a conjectured and chronological record of the commercial, industrial and educational advancement of Pennsylvania, and the inner history of all political movements since the adoption of the Constitution of 1838, by Colonel Alex. K. McClure. As Charles Emory Smith says, in his appreciation of Colonel McClure's work, "No other man now living could have written with such intimate personal knowledge of the great events in the history of Pennsylvania during the greater part of the last century, or so intimately of the various men who have been factors in the progress of the Keystone State."

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish, on the 14th inst., Dr. S. Weir Mitchell's new story, "A Diplomatic Adventure," a tale, told in the first person, of certain exciting adventures in Paris at the time of our Civil War—adventures which, despite their importance, have never crept into historical records. The book will have a frontispiece by Relyea. Later in the month they will bring out "The Lady of the Decoration," by Frances Little. The "lady of the decoration" is a charming young widow who goes to Japan as a kindergarten teacher in a mission school, leaving behind the man she should have married in the beginning. It is promised that the book, aside from its romance, will give decidedly fresh and piquant glimpses of Japan and the life there.

THE Deutsche Dichter-Gedächtniss-Stiftung, of Hamburg-Grossborstel, Germany, a co-operative publishing concern, has begun the publishing of a series of inexpensive reprints under the general title of Hausbücherei, which may be freely translated as a household library. The volumes are printed from fairly large and clear type, on substantial paper, with portraits and, occasionally, other illustrations, bound in washable cloth, and are sold at from 80 pfennigs to one mark the volume. There are now ready fifteen volumes, including Kleist's "Michael Kohlhass," Goethe's "Götz von Berlichingen," three volumes of "Deutsche Humoristen," four volumes of "Das Novellenbuch," Schiller's correspondence and philosophical writings, etc. This series is specially to be recommended for library and school use.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just brought out a work on "Literature—its Principles and Problems," by Theodore W. Hunt, professor of English in Princeton University. It is evidently the purpose of the author to discuss in this volume some of the fundamental topics that emerge in any thorough study of so comprehensive and vital a subject as literature, such as the guiding principles and methods of literature; its scope and mission; its primary aims and processes and forms; the laws that govern its orderly development, and its logical relation to other great departments of human thought; its specifically intellectual and æsthetic quality, and its informing genius and spirit. As the discussion goes on its ultimate aim appears as that of suggestion and stimulus along the lines of inquiry that are opened and examined.

MOFFAT, YARD & CO. will bring out shortly a volume of symphonic verse by Nathan Haskell Dole, entitled "The Building of the Organ." The symphonic poem is an invention of Mr. Dole's which has attracted a great deal of attention in the two editions of this book which have already been printed privately. It is the success of these editions, now exhausted, which necessitates the issue of the book in a form suitable for the market. It contains two poems, "The Building of the Organ" and "Onward, a Vision of Peace." They will publish during the spring a music novel entitled "Where Speech Ends," by Robert Haven Schauffler, who may be remembered by his fiction contributions to the Century and his essays on music in The Outlook. This is a novel of the celebrated Chicago Orchestra, and one in which the atmosphere has that quality of reality that can only be imparted by the pen of one who was, if only for a short period, himself a professional. A "prelude," by Henry van Dyke, introduces the narrative. They also announce a novel of Klondike life by Marguerite Merington, entitled "Scarlett of the Mounted."

E. P. DUTTON & CO.'s line of Easter cards, postals and novelties is very attractive, and includes most appropriate and artistic designs. There is a large variety of cut-out egg-shaped cards from which chicks or rabbits are peeping. Some unfold and stand with easel backs. On each there is a word of Easter greeting. Folders with verses inside are shown with sprays of Easter flowers, cherub heads or angels, beautifully embossed and colored. A cunning bunny with an easel back sits up in a basket of gaily colored eggs, while a large cut-out bunny carries a basket of eggs slung over her shoulder from a red ribbon. One series of post-cards gotten out for this season has a background of greyish green and in the centre there is a miniature painting of a chicken on a nest of eggs, framed with sprays of pussy willow and other spring flowers. Several designs are shown. Another series includes several styles of chicks, with broken eggshells filled with flowers. They are finished in grey monotone and are very artistic. Other post-cards are decorated with crosses in mosaic effects, floral crosses, angels, cherub heads, sprays of flowers, chicks, rabbits, eggs and other seasonable designs. Each has an Easter greeting printed in gold or colors. The advance orders for Dutton's Easter cards thus far have been so active that the lines are very nearly exhausted.

PICK-UPS.

"No," said the literary critic, "I never read the books I review, so that I am never influenced in what I say about them."—Puck.

MAYBE HE WON'T.—Alice: "Cholly has just published a book of his poems." Maude: "Why, I thought it was illegal to get money from people under false pretences."—Puck.

It is reported that Boccaccio and Rabelais are collaborating on a modern society drama. The boys ought to be able to deliver the goods, but they do say that some of these latter-day writers on earth can give our old friends cards and spades and then beat them at their own game.—Puck.

RECENTLY an apprentice in one of our bookstores was requested by one of his seniors to get for him from the stock room a copy of Dope's "Modern Antiquities." He dutifully but unsuccessfully hunted through the stock, until he became aware of the fact that the calendar recorded April 1. He then observed that there were also other books not in stock, such, for example, as "Buckle on Strap," "Adam Before the Creation," and "Wood's Propagation of the Clothes-horse." And, very likely, "there are others."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

W In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

W Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Story of the Constitution of the United States

By ROSSITER JOHNSON, LL.D.

IF THERE is one subject in which we may reasonably expect every American citizen to be interested, that subject is the National Constitution, which is the supreme law of the land. Many of our intelligent citizens possess a copy of the Constitution, or at least have read it. But few indeed are familiar with the story of its formation.

The whole narrative is not only a significant piece of history, but an intensely interesting story, and will surprise some who imagine they are familiar with the history of our country. We commonly think the Fathers of the Republic framed it in their patriotic wisdom. How many of us are aware that some of them opposed it and did their utmost to defeat its acceptance? How many know that one of our most honored Presidents was among these opponents? How many know of the impracticable sections that escaped being incorporated in it? How many are aware that in some States it was ratified by a bare majority? How many are familiar with the agency of Washington, Franklin and Madison in its formation? How many know that George Clinton—then Governor of New York, and afterwards Vice-President of the United States—tried hard to have New York reject it?

Heretofore this wonderful story was to be found only in pieces scattered through many books and documents. Now it may be had in a single handy volume, "The Story of the Constitution of the United States," published at the price of one dollar net.

Annual American Catalog, 1905

The "Annual American Catalog, 1905," contains in one alphabet the monthly lists of books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly during 1905, by author, title, subject, and series entries; also, in one (author) alphabet, the full titles, with descriptive annotations from the "Weekly Record" of The Publishers' Weekly from January 1st to December 31st, 1905. Besides these lists the volume, which is practically the first supplement to the "American Catalog" for the five years ending December 31, 1904, contains a full directory of publishers issuing books during 1905, statistics, etc.

The very latest catalog, as a rule, is the one most frequently consulted by the bookseller, hence the pronounced utility and value of this bibliography.

Octavo, containing over 700 pages, substantially bound in cloth. Price, $3.00 net. (Postage 35 cents.)

The edition is printed from type and limited.

The English Catalogue, 1905

The "English Catalogue of Books for 1905," for which we have the American sale. 8vo, may be had in cloth binding, $1.50 net. (Postage 13 cents.)

The two catalogs—American and English—are this year sold separately, not bound together in one volume.

The Annual Library Index, 1905

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to dates of Principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. 8vo, cloth binding, $3.50.

A Useful Work of Reference for Bookseller, Librarian, and the General Reader

THE ANNUAL LIBRARY INDEX contains: (1) The Index to Periodical literature for the year 1905, making the fourth annual supplement to "Poole's Index to Periodical Literature," 1897-1902; (2) An index to essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1905, making the fifth annual supplement to the new edition of Fletcher's "A. L. A. Index to General Literature," published in 1901; (3) An author index, both to periodical articles and to book-chapters; (4) A list of bibliographies issued in 1905; (5) A necrology of authors for 1905, extremely useful to catalogers; (6) An index of dates of events in 1905, furnishing a useful guide to the daily press.

BOOKS

PUBLISHED APRIL 10th

125

A book of mellow American humor by

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE

Author of "Court of Boyville," "Real Issue," etc.

In Our Town

Combining a delicate and yet thoroughly American humor and a vein of genuine feeling, Mr. White suggests Barrie more than any other living writer, and it may be said of his new book that it does for the daily life of a modern Kansas town just what Barrie has done for a Scotch town in "A Window in Thrums." It is through a window also that Mr. White, as the pretended editor of the local organ, looks out upon the main street of "our town" to observe the current of life that passes there and to record its daily humors and tragedies. Cloth. Sixteen illustrations. $1.50.

Brilliant and humorous sketches of life in a big city by

O. HENRY, Author of "Cabbages and Kings"

The Four Million

The talent of this admirable humorist, whose first book, "Cabbages and Kings," attracted so widespread attention, was never seen to better advantage than in these brilliant sketches of life in a great city—the home of millions. In Mr. Henry is shown once again that the true gift of humor is allied to the appreciation of human pathos, and smiles and tears are intermingled in these masterly delineations. Cloth. 12mo. $1.00.

A delightful new volume by

MARY STEWART CUTTING

More Stories of Married Life

Cynics tell us that courtship is the happiest period of a man or a woman's life. Mrs. Cutting has devoted herself to the refutation of this theory with what success the thousands of readers of her exquisite stories well know. Every one who owns her earlier books will wish to possess this latest collection, which represents a distinct advance upon her earlier work. Cloth. Frontispiece in color. $1.25.

Another book by

CHARLES WAGNER, Author of "The Simple Life," etc.

Wayside Talks

Pastor Wagner not only finds sermons in stones, but in everything, and all the commonest sights and experiences of the way seem to point some simple lesson of life. Mr. Wagner refers to this volume as the note-book of his own life. Cloth. Net, $1.00; postpaid, $1.08.

A perfect gem of a humorous tale by

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER

"Pigs is Pigs"

Wherein is propounded the profound problem
When is a pig not a pig?

This story, when it appeared in a recent magazine, created such an uproar of merriment throughout the country, that we determined to issue it in book form with all the original illustrations which contributed so greatly to enhance the comic effect. This little masterpiece of American humor is sure to be one of the season's biggest successes. Bound in cloth and attractively printed, with the original illustrations by Will Crawford. Price 50 cents.
